FMA whenever this "progressive selloff" occurs.

it would be idiotic for them to keep all contributed funds in that wallet and then start selling from it. im sure they will move the eth elsewhere and then sell on their own timeframe so that they can time their sales opportunistically.

Sure, but it doesn't change the fact they haven't yet transferred any ETH out, which as you say is the first step to liquidating.

with that volume you would expect tezos to conduct a trade OTC rather than through an exchange

This is great news for those of us who have sold.

I have to expect the price to drop moderately to substantially once Tezos begins selling. I'm surprised because I figured that's why the price had already fallen.

Now at 308,000 ETH.

Also, it's lol that Tezos' total funds raised can't seem to break $215M. Every time it comes close, ETH takes another wallop that brings it back down. <https://tezos.000webhostapp.com/>
